The 2nd annual Women4Climate conference in Mexico City will bring together mayors, business leaders and innovative change makers from around the world who are committed to taking action on climate change and air pollution.

The conference provides a critical platform for a unique cross-section of powerful and promising women - and men - to advance a shared agenda that spans education, innovation, and social equality. It highlights the critical role of women in creating a healthier, greener and more economically prosperous urban future.

Launched at the C40 Mayors Summit in Mexico City in 2016, C40's Women4Climate initiative has grown in scope and impact, and works to inspire and empower young women and raise awareness about the disproportionate impact climate change has on women around the world.

This initiative offers a never-before seen mentorship platform where young women and climate heroines from our C40 cities can develop and implement actions inspired by the "think local, act global" philosophy. Thanks to the collective commitment of mayors, business leaders and global thinkers, we are preparing these young women to shape our future, may they be entrepreneurs, researchers, activists, students or creative minds. Through the C40 mentorship programme, we will have empowered 500 young women from around the world by 2020.
